On 22 June 1941 Hitler launched Operation Barbarossa, his surprise assault on the Soviet Union, and in the first weeks of the war his forces struck a series of hammer blows against his reeling foes. German victories at Minsk and Smolensk put the führer's troops well on the road to Moscow but in August Hitler chose to move south instead.

Most accounts of the battle of Kiev, fought in September, 1941, highlight the massive victory that the Germans won (and massive defeat of the Soviets). Over three quarters of a million Russians were killed and captured in this battle. However, the Germans didn't get off easy and in fact lost at least 50,000 dead and many wounded, and it was more difficult for them to replace these soldiers.
